

Each Q & A is updated on a rolling basis

New Q and A's on the Responsibility to Protect and Country Situations The ICRTOP has published the latest additions to its "At a Glance" Series, an educational tool that clarifies the relationship between the Responsibility to Protect and related thematic areas, RtoP tools, and now conflict situations.

In these newest "At a Glance" documents, we provide a 2-page overview of how RtoP relates to Syria, South Sudan, Central African Republic, Kenya Darfur, Burma, and North Korea. The Q & A's give a brief background of the crises; an outline of why the international community has a responsibility to protect populations in these countries; and explanations of how various actors have or have not upheld this responsibility.

Read the latest "At a Glance" documents below! Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and Burma

Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and the Central African Republic Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and Darfur

— Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and Gaza
— Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and Kenya
Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and Nigeria

Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and North Korea Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and South Sudan

Q & A: The Responsibility to Protect and Syria

—
—
—