

The Genocide In Darfur: America Must Do More to Fulfill THE Responsibility to Protect Susan E. Rice
The Brookings Institution

This report by Brookings Institution scholar, Susan E. Rice, is one of a series on reports aimed at giving policy advice to the future American president. In this report, Rice conducts an analysis of the current situation in Darfur and the failures of the American response to, what President Bush has called, genocide. Rice concludes, the situation in Darfur is evolving rapidly. Clearly, the next President will be faced with a different, yet still difficult, situation in Darfur. The report proposes a new strategy for the future American president, which seeks to realize Americas role to fulfill the Responsibility to Protect.
